FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4. 1737.

410 503.

Reason of the Dispute of the Court of France with the Canton of Basil, about the Affair of Hunningen, having not been sufficiently explain'd to the Publick, it may not be amiss to print the following Extract of a Letter from M. Payen, the Commissary of France at Great Hunningen.

SIR,

YOU know the Difference that has been subsisting for above 300 Years, about the Salmon Fishery between the People of Great Hunningen in Alsace, and those of the Lesser Hunningen, which is a Dependancy of Basil. I have acquainted you of the Consequence that has resulted from it, and sent you the original Title of 1459, which adjudges the said Fishery to the Inhabitants of Great Hunningen, who are the King's Subjects, exclusive of those of Little Hunningen. Of this Instrument, I gave a Copy to the Gentlemen of the Council of Basil, who returned no Answer to it, but what was very loose and indefinite. After this, the Intendant sent them Word, that the Time for this Fishery commencing the 15th of November, it should be perform'd this Year either in Conjunction or Alternately, by the King's Subjects and those of Basil, without making a Precedent, to the future Prejudice of the reciprocal Right of the two Parties. All the Answer return'd to this Letter, was a Protestation. The Intendant having charged me to go and speak to them upon this Occasion, I represented to them, that as the Fishery was to commence on the Sunday following, we did not intend to give up our Right; that the Fishery should be performed either jointly or alternately, at their Option; but I desired them to give their Subjects expresse Orders, to use no Violence; and promised them, that I would give the same Orders to the King's Subjects, without making it a Precedent to the future Prejudice of the Right of the Parties, which we wou'd examine afterwards, in order to do Justice afterwards to both Parties. On the Sunday following, being the Day for the Fishery, I went about Noon to that Part of the Rhine which lies near our Fort, with a Number of our Officers. I caused the Fishermen of Hunningen to throw in the Net, which they drew up again with five large Salmon. Those of the Lesser Hunningen casking in their's, caught but a Brace. They thus continued the Fishery in the Afternoon alternately, without the least Disturbance. On the Monday Morning, we only stay'd on the Banks of the Rhine, to see the two first Throws of the Net; and in the Afternoon Counsellor Frey, the Bailiff of Little Hunningen, came to my House, and told me, that he was deputed by the Government of Basil, to make a fresh Protestation against our Fishing. I made him an Answer in these Terms: I receive your Protest, Sir, and tell you again, that what has been done, is not to affect the future Right of the Parties, as the Intendant has told you. I acquainted you also of the Order that I gave the King's Subjects to use no Violence, and I desire you to give the like Orders to those of Basil, for the keeping up a neighbourly Correspondence. He left me, but said he wou'd write once more to the Intendant. M. Frey was no sooner returned to Little Hunningen, but he caused the Drum to beat and raised the Populace, to whom were join'd the Watermen of Basil, who repaired, contrary to Custom, to Little Hunningen. There came no less than 200 People to attack our Fishermen in their Boats, tho' there were but 8 Hands on board. I had given them Order, that if Violence was used, they should get away; but those of Basil hinder'd them, saying, they had Orders from their Masters to knock 'em all down. They call'd 'em by a Million of hard Names, which were levelled at the Rhine in general. They attack'd 'em in the Boats with their Hooks, Staves and Oars, and wou'd have murdered every Man of 'em, if they had not made a Shift to get off; but as it was, they were all wounded, and one of them mortally.

'Tis observed, that they only stay'd for M. Frey's Return, to give the Signal for this fine Exploit. Above 20 of our Officers were Eye-Witnesses of what passed, and heard the handsome Epithets bestowed upon the French, to whom, among the rest, they gave the Appellation of starving Beggars. I gave an Account of the Whole to the Intendant, and remonstrated to him, that an Action, which was so barefac'd a Violation of the Respect due to the King, added to the Contempt of the Intendant's Letter, deserved his Notice; that I had put a Stop to the Fishery on our Part, while those of Basil carried on their's with Impunity, in the very Face of the King's Troops that are in the Fort, and that since they looked upon the French as such hunger-starv'd Beggars, 'twas but reasonable they should keep what Corn they had for their own Subsistence, and that all Communication with Basil should be prohibited, till they had given legal Satisfaction for so barbarous a Proceeding, &c.

The Deputies of the several Cantons have had several Meetings, in which they have taken this Affair into Consideration, and agreed on the Draught of a Letter of Intercession, to be written by the Helvetic Body to the King of France, in favour of the Regency of Basil. — Mean while Sir Luke Schaub (who is of that Country) and the Bailiff Frey, are no doubt by this time at Paris, where 'tis hoped they will prevail with the Court of France to take off the Prohibitions, by Virtue of which, the Trade has been prohibited betwixt Alsace and the Canton of Basil. Before Sir Luke Schaub set out for France, the said Canton sent a Deputation, to thank him for the Trouble he had given himself to make up this Affair, and to acquaint him at the same time, that he had been chose a Member of both the Privy Council and the Little Council of Basil, and that the Regency moreover, to give him the greater Marks of their Gratitude, desired that when he returned from Paris, he would be pleased to accept the Post of Bailiff in the Canton of Basil, with a Power of disposing thereof in favour of any one of his Family.

The Letter from Cardinal Fleury upon this Head, to Sir Luke Schaub, was publish'd in one of our former; but the Letter from Sir Luke to his Eminency, has not yet been insert'd, and is as follows:

My Lord,

WHEN I came hither two Days ago, I found my Country under an inconceivable Affliction, for having incurred his Most Christian Majesty's Displeasure: And the Confirmation was the greater, because on the one Hand they had no Prospect of the King's Good Will, but by punishing the Author of the Violences complain'd of by his Majesty's Subjects, and because on the other Hand, the Magistrates, after the most strict Inquiry, had found that Person innocent whom M. de Marianne (the Secretary of the French Embassy in Switzerland) has mark'd out for the Author of those Violences. I own, my Lord, that I could not but sympathise in the Concern of my Countrymen; and while I was considering of a proper Remedy, in a Manner suitable to the King's Dignity, I thought Satisfaction might be made to it, even according to the Letter from M. de Marianne, dated the 24th of December, if, besides detaining the Prisoners, the Bailiff Frey went and offered himself voluntarily to submit to such Punishment as it should please your Eminency to prescribe. He agreed to it without a Moment's Hesitation, and Yesterday Morning he earnestly intreated the Grand Council to give him Leave to cast himself at your Eminency's Feet, to give you a genuine Account of the true State of the Case, if it may please your Eminency, and to wait and submit himself with a respectful Silence, and the most profound Submission, to whatever your Eminency shall please to order. This Permission has been unanimously granted him in Council; but he still wants your Eminency's Permission to go and surrender himself into your Hands. I most humbly desire you to let me know your Pleasure hereupon, by my Lord Waldegrave, and your Eminency's Orders shall be punctually obey'd. M. Frey has already given a Token of his intire

Deference to the same, by forbearing to assist in the Assemblies of the Council. I hope, my Lord, that you will vouchsafe to accept of this Testimony of my Zeal for the Honour of the King, and of my just Confidence in your Eminency's Humanity.

I am, &c.

Sign'd,

LUKE SCHAUB.

Note, 'Tis observ'd that the last Year's Volume of this Work has more Pages by almost a whole Month's, than those set out

Variety than any other.

The Author therefore, who has now Six Years had the Indulgence of his Readers, hopes he may be excus'd taking Notice in Return, that he has not spared any Expence to oblige them; and for the Extensiveness of his Correspondence, and Variety of Entertainment, he submits his JANUARY MAGAZINE, now publish'd, for an Instance. It is scarce worth observing, in so obvious a Matter, that, had his violent Opposers themselves Assurance of their own greater Merit, they wou'd not aim to derive any from borrow'd Expression, Similitude of Names, Forms, and even Title of his Book, or from a Combination of many Interests against that of a single Person. It were needless also to point out such mean Arts, was not the whole Trade most strongly address'd to promote and put off another Book instead of this. And had not J. C. in the Alley (not to name others) when reproved by a Merchant several Years his Customer, for attempting to impose a Counterfeit upon him, pretended it was the same Thing as the Original, can Gentlemen expect fair Dealing from such a Fellow as would put Tricks upon them, and risk his own Credit for the Lucr of a HALFPENNY?

The Secret Instructions of the Jesuits. In Latin and English.

Adieu de la Force, il faut employer la Ruse, Motto to LAYAN'S Scheme.

Advertisement concerning this Book.

This Masterpiece of religious Policy was published, many Years since, in Latin, French, and Dutch: Mr. John Schipper, a Bookseller at Amsterdam, bought one of them at Antwerp, among other Books, and afterwards reprinted it. The Jesuits being informed that he had purchased this Book, demanded it back from him; but he had then sent it to Holland. One of the Society, who lived at Amsterdam, hearing it said, that after, to a Catholick Bookseller, by Name Van Eyne, the Schipper was printing a Book which concerned the Jesuits replied, that if it was only The Rules of the Society, he should not be under any Concern; but desired he would inform him self what it was. Being told by the Bookseller, that it was The Secret Instructions of the Society, the good Father, throwing up his Shoulders, and knitting his Brow, said, that he saw no other Remedy but denying that this Piece came from the Society. The Reverend Fathers however thought it more adviseable to purchase the whole Edition, which they did after did, some few Copies excepted; from one of these it was afterwards reprinted, with this Account prefixed; which there said to be taken from two Roman Catholicks, Men of Credit.
